

OUR ORIGIN

Virexon didn't begin in a boardroom, but in a laboratory. Founded in the late 80s by the visionary Dr. Aris Thorne, our company emerged from a singular, defiance-fueled question: "Why must biological decay be inevitable?" What started as a small pharmaceutical venture quickly pivoted when we discovered anomalous compounds in remote, untouched ecosystems. We realized that nature hides the keys to immortality; it just needed a firm hand to unlock them.
